"Year Of The Flood"

I see your rivers flowing
I see your skies open
In the year of the flood

It's coming clear as day
Like comets blazing trails
Through the shadows and the veils
All along the valley
In every sunrise spent

All our beginnings end
All our doves sent
For the hour of knowing

You may walk and you may run
You leave your footprints all around the sun
And every time the storm and the soul wars come
You just keep on walking
It's been this way from the start
Everybody walking round with holes in the heart
Everybody holding up skies in the dark
As the stars keep falling
