Drifting on an ocean so deep and so wide,
Not a harbour in sight.
Rolling, with the wind and the waves, and the tide,
Through the heart of the night.
I don't want a love that fades away.
I don't want to hold you if I can't make you stay.

Anchor me to a love that never dies,
Anchor me in the shelter of your eyes.
I don't want stay on this cold and lonely sea,
Anchor me, anchor me.

Scattered, like driftwood after the storm.
Battered and torn.
Haunted by the promises broken before.
I won't take any more.
I don't a love that disappears.
I wanna know you'll be there, through the pain and the tears.

Anchor me to a love that never dies,
Anchor me in the shelter of your eyes.
I don't want stay on this cold and lonely sea,
Anchor me, anchor me.

Instrumental Break.

I don't want a love that fades away.
I don't want to hold you if I can't make you stay.

Anchor me to a love that never dies,
Anchor me in the shelter of your eyes.
I don't want stay on this cold and lonely sea,
Anchor me, anchor me.
