You're not alone - they say
In any place, on any day
There'll be signs that may inspire you somehow
On your way

So give yourself a chance
Just become one of His friends
You and me - we all need Him
I remember, remember myself...

Trying hard to understand
What's my weakness, what's my strength
I remained too blind to see
Not all things depend on me

I couldn't find the cause
Without a trace I was lost
What I lacked was that special kind of true care
There finally came the time
When I got used to such a state of mind
My life could end without a single clue of you

Trying hard to understand
What's my weakness, what's my strength
I remained too blind to see
Not all things depend on me

What is right or what is wrong
Where's the calm for which I long
In that search for my own truth
No one's there to help but you

How could I reject your grace
Just because I couldn't see your face
We feel sure with all we can embrace

Thank you, Lord, you saw my soul
Rescued me and brought new goals
Now I can go on and on...
In my life there's only you

Trying hard to understand
What's my weakness, what's my strength
I remained too blind to see
Not all things depend on me

What is right and what is wrong
Where's the calm for which I long
In that search for my own truth
No one's there to help but you
