Hey Davey, you know I live it every day
When friendship walked out the door
Nothin' going on, Davey, but I'll talk to you, you, yeah, yeah
Talking to you is like talking to walls

You said I couldn't take the pain
No trust in me, that's your shame
Mine's the night that Davey hit the train
Mine's the night that Davey hit the train

Taking everything that comes down
Falling out of the sky
There's no malice in the weather
You might find love if you try

How many miles between here and Grafton Bridge, Billy?
I'm not slowing down again
While you make your decisions 'bout who you're gonna be, Billy
I'm rocket fuelled and I'm on the mend

Taking everything that comes down
Falling out of the sky
There's no malice in the weather
You might find love in my eyes, eyes
You might find love in my eyes

Now Benny said he didn't think it would be too long
In Belvoir Street, chasing demons of his own Blessed by the sharpest form of jealousy
No place dry enough to lie down, no space to roam

You said I couldn't take the pain
No trust in you, that's your shame
Mine's the night that Davey hit the train
Mine's the night that Davey hit the train

Taking everything that comes down
Falling out of the sky
There's no malice in the weather

You might find love if you, you might find love if you try, if you try

[Incomprehensible]
