For all the hours here that move too slow
There's all this letting go that won't pass
If all this love is real, how will we know?
If we're only scared of losing it, how will it last?

If I am a stranger now to you
I will always be, I will always be
Stronger now than me, stronger than you
Our love will always be, if we let it go
I will try and be here for you, if I can
What if I can't?

Today is yesterday when you don't know
How to rebuild the walls that someone has knocked down
To tell the truth it's hard enough without a lover
Who you only want to hide your darkness from so you won't let them down

If I am a stranger now to you, I will always be
I will always be

Stronger now than me, stronger than you
Our love will always be
And if we let it go,
I will try to be there for you
I will try to be there for you
If I can, what if I can't?

For all the hours here that move too slow
There's all this letting go, that won't pass
If all this love is real, how will we know?
And if we're only scared of losing it, how will it last?

If I am a stranger now to you
I will always be, I will always be
Stronger now than me, stronger than you
Our love will always be, if we let it go
I will try to be there for you
I will try to be there for you
If I can, what if I can't?
What if I can't?
