"Breath again"

I used to live by every word you said scary how beauty can intoxicate until the point that you ain't thinking straight and it's too late.

I was spinning helpless in your web the way that you were messing with my head they might as well have just declared me dead see that's how bad.

You had me paralyzed
I felt so numb inside
but now I'm back to life.

I breath again
now this is where you end and I begin make way for the woman within without you now I breath again.

How did I ever turn out this way suddenly you had me in a daze and I was just about to suffocate in your embrace.

You had me paralyzed
I felt so numb inside
but now I'm back to life.

I breath again
now this is where you end and I begin
make way for the woman within
without you now I breath again.

Breath again, I feel again I'm coming back stronger now did you think you could hold me never felt, never been so alive.

I breath again
now this is where you end and I begin make way for the woman...

I breath again
now this is where you end and I begin
without you now I breath again.

Now this is where you end and I begin without you now I can finally breath again.
