we're hurtling through space at top speed so don't be surprised if you get a nosebleed i also know for a fact that we're small so don't go drooling over the size of crossgates mall we are a tick in a forest of trees so it's no surprise that you can never find your car keys sun's big and bright but it's a small star i often wonder how the hell we've made it this far i really hate it when people complain about preventable heart disease and a little rain little green men, they could be our friends we keep them away with recurrent 70s trends who can explain a world with cell phones intricate computers and the likes of jenny jones?

about broken escalators and a little rain
i really hate it when people complain about how tipping's overrated and a little rain tomorrow we might not be here at all we could get hit with a big flaming fireball! time's running out, so please don't delay know who you are more than you know how much you weigh

about what they should have done yesterday and a little rain
about all their broken promises and a little rain
