Konstantinopolis' burning
Dramatical scenes make fear become hate
Revolution or death must begin
Before it's too late

And from Europe the Greeks prepare the ground
For the great uproar

Children are taken by force
And women in search for their dignity
Like eagles in cages the men
Screaming for liberty

Sunk for 400 into darkness
Now the time has come

With fire
With a heart made of stone and desire
Like the lions in battle we'll fight
For Greece, for God , for resurrection
Now

It's too late to blow out the flame
In Kalavrita a priest excuses our sins
And the Greek revolution begins

Fighting with fire and steel
Your home is the mountains
Your friend is death
The empire of hate to destroy seems so unreal

But the wave's not turning back
Death or Freedom we scream
