It's easy to live in hope when there's some hope to speak of

And it's easy to be optimistic when the future lies ahead

But can you really achieve some lasting happiness when there's nothing left to dream off

And the only thing to be sure about

Is that time's slipping through your hands like grains of sand

As they regard the essence

Of their past existence

Fading right before their eyes

Spiraling downward one directional

With extreme persistence

As the laughter dies

The brightest flame burns the quickest

Leaving an eternal darkness to be illuminated by death itself

The basic of faith and consolation

To temporarily lift the loneliness to embrace the gift the answer to end all doubts

As they regard the essence

Of their past existence

Fading right before their eyes

Spiraling downward one directional

With extreme persistence

As the laughter dies...

Dead end?

I am the one who takes the bow in front of those

Gratefully pushed off and stored away

Suffering from withdrawal

I am not sure if countless memories simply leave me

Be if I'll have the courage to hold on

Or decide to take my own life

Willingly

.....end?
