B/f# e |intro 2 ms.

Till you won't recognize it at all

Streets were wide open

Till the break of dawn

'twas frisco in its heyday

Imported from hong kong

For about five dollars

Or one thousand yen

You could gamble n ramble in a brothel

Or take it to the opium den

Shoot out in chinatown
They nailed up every door
They're gonna level it to the ground
And close it up for evermore

Confucius had once stated
All across the land
Below the surface, crime and love
They go hand in hand
The fire dragons burn
Buddha's lost his smile
But swears that we will meet again
In just a little while

1st chorus
B/f# e add2 |b5 under far east jam fade
Till you won't recognize it at all
