I'm up each day at the crack of dawn
Primed for the first inspection
He's running the home and the family
Like a military installation

This can't be right, helpless
I feel so helpless

I can't do this and I can't do that
Dare not make a move without his orders
No matter how well I do what I do
It's never good enough, not for him

Helpless, I feel so helpless
Helpless, don't like to be so helpless

I don't wish to feel in my own home
Some kind of prisoner
There must be a way to put a stop
To his violent behavior

Helpless, I feel so helpless
Helpless, don't like to be so helpless

Somehow something's changed around the house
It suddenly seems so calm
Now what are we supposed to do
With all of this new found freedom

Helpless, I feel so helpless
Helpless, don't like to be so helpless
