(English Translation)

Please do not ask me where it is that I came from Please do not touch this wound that I have Please do not sway back to the lost yesterday
Please do not stop any more than that Even now the dreams put to sleep inside my heart clamor like a storm, but Turning my back to them,
the twinklings scatter apart like a single tear Since that day when I chose the days of fighting
I want to become the wind, I want to become the wind

Please do not condemn me, though I am not kind Please do not cry, heart of mine

The day I kiss the lovely blooming flowers of innocence is still far away
A world where everyone can have dreams
I swore to protect with this body Since that day, I've been on the distant road toward being a soldier
I want to become the wind, I want to become the wind
I want to become the wind, I want to become the wind
