She's not the kind that sleeps around
She's the kind that settles down
She's got that gentleness of touch,
So full of life and full of dreams
The kind of girl I need so much
She's got those tender looking eyes
The kind that never cheats or lies
But why she works in this old bar
Full of drunks and has-been stars
I wish that I could change it all
For she's my kind of girl
But she belongs to a much better world

She pours the drinks with steady hands
I bet she's the kind that understands
A guy like me who drinks alone
Without a friend, away from home
Still drying out from the pouring rain
I wish I knew just what to say
To make her come with me one day
But until then, I'll keep my place
Every night, to see her face
And just to dream a little more

For she's my kind of girl
But she belongs to a much better world
For she's my kind of girl
But she belongs to a much better world
