the surface is so cold and worthless all the things that I have still come from there so paint your windows in front of my face when you know damn well theres no one behind them
I wish your body was not so warm to me just so you know
all it was was something beautiful when tides and dreams dont seem so tall at all its me against the world still Im losing ground Id kill to taste what it must be like cause its every one of my empty parts that you fill now

when tides and dreams dont seem so tall at all pause silence
another moment dropped off left behind and hanging still you wont see me I cant see you
all it was was something beautiful
when tides and dreams dont seem so tall at all
