"Waiting For Goodbye"

The stars look like satellites
Married to the moon tonight
Looking down on you.
I never thought that a fallen grace
I would see your face in another space
I don't like this place
Tomorrow came too soon.

And everything I did was not enough (was not enough)
And everything I did for you.
Crash back down
It's too late for goodbye
It's too late for goodbye
Because the lights are burning out
It too late for goodbye
So dont wait for goodbye
Because the lights are burning out (its too late, its too late)

The stars look like city lights that glitter in the sky tonight shining down on you
I never thought in a million years
Through a thousand tears and a life of fears
That the end was here
Tomorrows burning thourgh

But everything I did was not enough (was not enough)
And everything I did for you.
Crash back down
It's too late for goodbye
It's too late for goodbye
Because the lights are burning out (don't wait tonight)
It's too late for goodbye
so dont wait for goodbye
because the lights are burning out (don't wait tonight)

And I'll blame myself for writing these words that I never said to you
Deep breaths and hesitating, but the city lights remind me of you

And I hate myself for saving these letters that never came to you Once done there's nothing changing in you. (this is totally wrong but I don't know what to write here:P)

It's too late for goodbye
It's too late for goodbye
Because the lights are burning out (don't wait tonight)
It's too late for goodbye
So don't wait for goodbye
Because the lights are burning out (don't wait tonight)

The stars look like satellites
Married to the moon tonight
Lookin down on you
