"Never Too Soon"

Now you're mad and leaving home
'Cause you say there's no one there for you to talk to Isn't it nice to go outside
When you know there is no place you have to walk to
You can live alone inside a crowded room
And it's never, never too late, never too soon
Put on your frown to go downtown
You have come a long long way
Even though you have no idea where you're going
You ain't done a godamn thing all afternoon
Your confidence is sinking like a lead balloon
And it's never, never too late, never too soon
I can't come down I can't come down
I can't come down I can't come down
I can't go on I can't go on
It's not like I'm asking you to hold up the sky
All the things you held so high
Are you surprised to find that now they add to nothing
Now you're growing old and bored
Do you think that maybe you could teach me something
There is nothing that you really can assume

And it's never, never too late, never too soon

Now you're mad I know you're mad

Now you're mad I know you're mad

Why don't you just tell someone

It's not like you're the only one

It's not like I'm asking you to hold up the sky

I can teach you how to drive

You can teach me how to lie

Hush my darling don't you cry

This could be your lullaby
