I still jump when my phone rings
And maybe we could talk about the old things
Just tell me that you're over us
And maybe this won't hurt me so much
I need you to be honest
Or will you break another promise?
You were the cause of a love-struck summer
Turns out you're like all the others
I don't even know what I'm trying to prove
It's a shame and you know that it's true
My one regret is you
And everything that you put me through

You're disgusting,
And it seems like breaking hearts is what you were made to do
'Cause anyone standing in your way,
Will be sitting down once you're through
Cupping their hands over their faces,
Thinking about all the days when Everything used to be okay
And you would control every single one of their days spent

I still jump when my phone rings
And maybe we could talk about the old things
Just tell me that you're over us
And maybe this won't hurt me so much
I need you to be honest
Or will you break another promise?
You were the cause of a love-struck summer
Turns out you're like all the others
I don't even know what I'm trying to prove
It's a shame and you know that it's true
My one regret is you
And everything that you put me through

I need you to be honest
Or will you break another promise?
You were the cause of a love-struck summer
Turns out you're like all the other

I still jump when my phone rings
And maybe we could talk about the old things
Just tell me that you're over us
And maybe this won't hurt me so much
I need you to be honest
Or will you break another promise?
You were the cause of a love-struck summer
Turns out you're like all the others
I don't even know what I'm trying to prove
It's a shame and you know that it's true
My one regret is you
And everything that you put me through
