La dada da da
La dada, la dada
People wearing those clown masks
Their smiling and crying, their living and dying
But all the people just wanna laugh
Instead of fighting the world and racing the race
They wanna play, they wanna smile
They wanna win, they wanna feel
They wanna breath everything
But I just embrace these things that I am given
Unsure inspiration going out to make it happen

Tomorrow, when the morning comes
Why don't you wake up, get up
And show the world what you got
It's amazing how you feel
It's amazing how you fell

Like a statue in the wall
I don't wanna stand still
I wanna keep moving
It's another smiling fake
It's living a lie, it's not keeping pace
You need to laugh, you need to cry
Because to go through everything
You have to feel is to have lived
I try to embrace these things that I am given
My feet are moving on their own
And I got no idea where I'm going

Tomorrow, when the morning comes
Why don't you wake up, get up
Show the world what you got
It's amazing how you feel

All around looks new to see
But the only thing changed is me
I'm different inside
I found a new pride
Anything let it happen

If you want it enough
You can get it
I feel new

Tomorrow, when the morning comes
I'm gonna wake up, get up
Show the world what I got
And you won't know what you've been missing

So tomorrow, when the morning comes
I'm gonna wake up, get up and
Show the world what you got
And you won't know what you've been missing

So tomorrow, when the morning comes
Get up and show the world what you got
It's amazing how you feel
It's amazing how you feel
