[Atherton] WELCOME to another episode of deep thought that comes from aimless days, and with a lack of sleep's brought 2:43 AM, lets me begin this verse If productivity is, pain, then this really hurts Tryin to compile enough material to compose a full-length is gonna take my full focus, full cop of coffee and my full strength Now when I first started, the writing thing came easy Now it takes so much more for these words to appease me I put so much thought into this, I feel I'm wearin thin Contrastin craft with masters, I fail in comparison Cause when I first started, it was heavenly I never knew there were other MC's that were better than me WELCOME to another episode of shallow thinking Change that line from the first time, nudge nudge wink winkin So what are you tryin to do? Bring new ideas for what it's worth that'll sound fresh unless some other guy has said it first Music's recycled material, sent through the years to drones But creative tracks make tracks that sternly stand alone Bringin brave new youthful symphonies with persistancy that lingers Cause it's hard pushin the envelope, with arthritis in your fingers I'm not a singer, I do not contain that gift in my throat Try as hard as I want to, but I cannot hold a note But I hold soul and rhythm and flow, least that's what I tell them And mold more lyrics in one track, than some have on their whole album WELCOME to another episode in syndication We come with reruns until you get this situation What we're facin, is the monotony plagues When lobotomy waves of the gone-rotten invade I've got a lot to say~! I'ma write it down and say it And throw the ball to your corner, to decide if you will play it OR NOT, but before you choose the second option Be aware hits kicks and snares, and cadences aren't stoppin So keep watchin, appreciate exactly what we've been through For the sake of suspense, let's add TO BE CONTINUED Cause in the kitchen, got a spot cookin a pot of hot thought With lots of leftovers to be continued, dot dot, DOT
