"After All"

After all you come back and after all there's no reason to be sad there's no reason to cry anymore
'cause after all you're home

After all we're finally together but after all I miss you more than ever and we sit here and pretend this isn't the end
'Cause after all you're home

I see only the past in your eyes
How I wish, how I wish they were alive
How I wish those same eyes
Would recognize me

After all I look into those eyes
And after all I do realize
That I still feel alone
But after all you're home

I see only the past in your eyes

How I wish, how I wish they were alive
And I still cry on my own
But after all you're home
