Baby it breaks my heart,
That you don't smile anymore.
I'm dying to help you here,
But you won't unlock your door.
You say it takes time,
But you don't have to spend it alone.

You're stuck in a memory
That you desperate to rewind.
You're too busy looking back
That you won't make another try.
Now you're trust is gone,
But you won't find it again on your own.

So don't go telling me
It's too late to start.
You're still holding a broken heart,
But if you let me in, (Let me in).
Maybe you can start again (Start again).
And don't go telling me
There's no second chance
You'll understand
When you take my hand
And baby let me in, (Let me in)
I promise we will start again (Start again)

I'm trying to get to you
So I make these promises
I swear they are breakable
But you're still hearing his
He won't let you go,
Till you decide
That you wanna be free.
You're haunted by yesterday
And you're still sore from the fall.
All you need is to
Whitewash these old walls.
We'll paint something new,
If you let yourself listen to me.

So don't go telling me

It's too late to start.
You're still holding a broken heart,
But if you let me in, (Let me in).
Maybe you can start again (Start again).
And don't go telling me
There's no second chance
You'll understand
When you take my hand
And baby let me in, (Let me in)
I promise we will start again (Start again)

Don't give up yet,
I won't let you close the curtain too soon.
We can reset,
If you take the leap and let me show you.
You just gotta make the choice, yeah!
We love, we lose
And you think the best defense is distance.
Tune the world out,
Put it all on mute so you can't listen.
But there's a way outta here,
Just follow my voice.

So don't go telling me
It's too late to start.
You're still holding a broken heart,
But if you let me in, yeah!

So don't go telling me
It's too late to start.
You're still holding a broken heart, (A broken heart)
But if you let me in, (Let me in).
Maybe you can start again (Maybe you can start again).
And don't go telling me
There's no second chance (You'll understand)
You'll understand
When you take my hand (Take my hand)
And baby let me in, (Let me in)
I promise we will start again (I promise we will start again)

So don't go telling me
It's too late to start.
You're still holding a broken heart,
But if you let me in, (Let me in).
Baby you can start again.
