I climbed the winding little stairs
That lead up to my lonely room
Each step reminds me that you left me
That new was nothing but the gloom
The street below is filled with laughter
And lovers walking two by two
But I'm alone forever after, now that I know you've someone new

Tears come, the hurt has begun
Tears come, the hurt has begun, tears come

The whole day through I try forgetting Still nights without you are so sad
I just keep longing and regretting, darling come back or I'll go mad
Tears come, the hurt has begun
Tears come, the hurt has begun, tears come

Here in my room for once can hide me
No one can see each lonely tear
Here I can look outside my window
Hoping that somehow you'll appear
Tears come, the hurt has begun
Tears come, the hurt has begun, tears come.
