"True Legends"

I have heard enough of your crap You're doing nothing, but telling everyone in this arena lies, lies and more lies But I still stood toe to toe with you, mister hardcore legend Everything I ever wanted to be,
and everything I've ever become, is because of you

Look at yourself
You better look up to somebody
You ought a look up to me
As well as anybody as, without me, you would be a nobody
There wouldn't even be hardcore in this country
I am the true hardcore individual

I used to look up to you
As I said, I used to idolize you
You were a legend
I thought you were timeless
But the truth is, you're oldschool
And I represent everything that's a threat to you I'm gonna grab the hardcore title and that hardcore torch Raise them both high and claim my rightful spot as leader of the new hardcore revolution
