

Machiavel

"The Humans"

Visit "The Humans" on MotoLyrics.com

the humans by Machiavel (Marc Ysaye - Mario Guccio - Albert Letecheur - Jean Paul Devaux - Roland De Greef)

You meet them in the street
Some are ready to cheat
Some don't stop to bleat Bizarre breed, bizarre breed !
Some have money and taste
They think they 're so great
And they can lead the feast Bizarre feast, what a feast
!
You lodge on the same floor
Sometimes they knock on your door
Coming to say hello, but they don't need more
Some are in despair
Some are millionaires
You see them everywhere
So let me tell you: " take care "

However they know what love means, oh they know !

Who are they ?
The humans

Some have a head too little to contain all their problems
They really have a bizarre head
Some have their eyes too closed to see around them
They really have bizarre eyes
Some have their ears much too closed to listen to others
They really have bizarre ears
Some have their fists too clenched to open out their hands They really have bizarre hands

However they know what love means, oh they know !

Who are they ?
The humans

