the river of shame by Machiavel
We're all waiting for something
Something else of a dream on our own
You pretend you're swimming, alone

With a smile upon his face,
A blind angel is standing by you fading your steps behind us, to show

We're not alone, on the river of shame
And I'm seeking the time, it's always the same

Feel like reading the skies, hoping soon, we will find a way
Far from this river we will step away

We're not alone, on the river of shame
And I'm seeking the time, we were the same
People come around, on the river of shame
And I'm not all alone to drown again

We're not alone, on the river of shame
And I'm seeking the time, we were the same
People come around, on the river of shame
And I'm not all alone to drown again

We're all waiting for something
