There's not much to say
That could ever change all my foolish days
But now I'm here to stay
So let the chips fall where they may

For all the wrong I know I've done some good
And all along you're the one I understood

For all I know
When games start to show
I'm on your side
Until our hearts collide

As I'm growing old
I wanna take back all those lies I told
I hope you understand
I'm just trying to be a better man

And the hardest part would be letting you go
After all I have done
Our hearts are meant to be one
But I think you should know

Dont look back
Dont ever look back
Wont look back
Wont ever look back
