Breathless, your hands are tired
Sleepless, the battle wages higher
"All aboard!" you hear the captain say Take what's yours, only what you can carry in your arms

Before I met you, my life was a series of chances
Before I met you, my mind, it was racing all of the time
Bye, bye, bye, bye [to illusions I behold]
Bye, bye, bye, bye

Dodging arrows, the ones that strike you down
They hit the walls behind us without a sound
Elevate yourself to the higher plane
And don't look down; you will only scare yourself

Before I met you, my life was a series of chances
Before I met you, my mind, it was racing all of the time
Bye, bye, bye, bye [to illusions I behold]
Bye, bye, bye, bye

Lay down on a sandy beach
It's a bad world, no place for us to be So hold the ones you love dear and closest to your heart
Tell them how you feel; they might not know it 'cause you
Never show them

Before I met you, my life was a series of chances
Before I met you, my mind, it was racing all of the time
Bye, bye, bye, bye...
Bye, bye, bye, bye
