an empty nest is just a tangled mess since your bird has flown you filled her with emptiness light enough to float you taught her everything she knows think youç€ know by now it donç€ feel the same this time around take a walk down your old street and try not to forget you tied her down you left her alone she stuck it out too long with you out of sight she kept you in mind on her first flight think youç€ know by now it donç€ feel the same this time around take a walk down your old street and try not to forget how do you feel now you feel alone you donç€ feel so smug do you since your bird has flown think youç€ know by now everythingç€— changed somehow take a walk down your old street think youç€ know by now
