I'd like to hide away
Somewhere without light
Somewhere dark and warm, no given chance to lose
Without a care in my head, I could sleep right through

I gave it all away today
Those empty stares won't be from me
There's not much to look forward to
But as long as I can't remember

Took a shower today
Couldn't feel the water hit my face
Pinched the skin on my arm and I couldn't feel the pain
I guess my wish came true, so, now may I not lose

I gave it all away today
Those empty stares won't be from me
There's not much to look forward to
But as long as I can't remember you
