Baby it breaks my heart that you don't smile anymore, I'm dying to help you heal, but you won't unlock your door
You say it takes time, but you don't have to spend it alone.

You're stuck in the memory that you're desperate to rewind
Too busy with looking back, that you won't make another try
Now your trust is gone, but you won't find it again on your own.

[Chorus]
So don't go telling me it's too late to start
You're still holding a broken heart.
But if you let me in
Baby you can start again.

And don't go telling me there's no second chance You'll understand when you take my hand Baby let me in
I promise we will start again

Trying to get to you, so I make these promises
I swear they're unbreakable but you're still just hearing his
He won't let you go, till you decide you want to be free

You're haunted by yesterdays, and still sore from the fall
All you need is to whitewash these old walls, we'll paint something new

If you let yourself listen to me

[Chorus]

Don't give up yet, I won't let you close the curtain too soon
We can reset, if you take the leap and let me show you
You just got to make the choice

We love, we lose and we think the best defence is distance
Tune the world out; put it all on mute so you can't listen
But there's away outta here, just follow my voice.

So don't go telling me it's too late to start
You're still holding a broken heart.
But if you let me in...

[Chorus]

So don't go telling me it's too late to start
You're still holding a broken heart.
But if you let me in
Baby you can start again.
