Phillip Sandifer

Running hard without direction

Can tend to be more like retreat

And taking off without a proper plan

You know it's a short way to defeat

There I was another running fool

Running fast but not very far

Then you finally caught me, gave me direction

And a brand new start

Chorus

And now it's a new life I'm living

Yes I've finally seen what I've been given

And now I know that more than any other love

I can run to you because you'll always listen

Why am I smiling, could it be this new love

That I'm riding is gonna take me

Past my own imagination, leave no part of me unshaken

Great is this new life I live with you

Now with the grace of a dancing angel

You weave your will into my life

And though I stumble and I'm often tangled

I've come to know that it's worth the price

And though I often curse the pain

That it always takes to reach me

I'm thankful for the love that remains

And I wonder at how you teach me

Repeat Chorus
