Theres no one to pick you up
You fell and hit the ground
Be sure you don't get up
'Til you find what needs found
Well if you try to make that burning back into you
You go up and come back down

With no particular sound
There will be a time when you'll feel all alone
You should know thats just how love goes

Well theres no one to save you now
The clouds are spinning around
And it seems like a million sounds
All at once raining down
And if you try to make that burning move back into you
Go up and come back down

With no particular sound
Theres not any way that you found around it
You should know thats just how it goes
But if you don't leave a light on you will never know
Just how your love should go
Oh you'll never know

You should know thats just how it goes
But if you don't leave the light on
You will never know just how your love should go
Oh you'll never know
