He would scale the highest mountain
Sail the seven seas
Walk upon the water
Brave the honey bees
What would make a full-grown bear
Be acting so downright funny?
I guess he'd do anything
Just for a taste of honey
Just a little taste of honey
He would search a hundred acres
And climb the highest tree
He would give his all, risk the fall
For a little something sweet
When he wraps his arms around that jar
Any rainy day turns sunny
'Cause he can't bear a world without
Just a little taste of honey
Just a little taste of honey

It's a never-ending quest
For his favorite fantasy
He will get his just desserts
That's a bear's necessity

To fill his jar he would travel far
Some might find him kind of funny
But you know he'd do anything
Just for a taste of honey
Just a little taste of honey
Just for a taste of honey
Won't you give it to him?
Just a little taste of honey
Just for a taste of honey
Just a little taste of honey
Just a little taste of honey
