My nails are chipped and my hair's in knots
An my jeans are ripped and I just can't stop drinking this wine
And I read this Bible and I search for signs Any little whisper that says you're alright but sometimes

I'd like to get through a day without crying
Night without asking why I can't stop thinking about you
Get through a song without thinking
I'm drowning, I'm sinking, wondering how I'm ever gonna get through
But my feet just keep on moving and I know the truth is Nobody gets through life without losing

You said you love me but you went away
Now I convinced myself it will be okay but I don't know Sometimes I think that I'm doing better
Then the night shows up and it drags on forever
And the devil tells me we'll never be together

And I'd just like to get through a day without crying
Night without asking why I can't stop thinking about you
Get through a song without thinking
I'm drowning, I'm sinking, wondering how I'm ever
gonna get through
But my feet just keep moving and I know the truth is Nobody gets through life without losing

Someone they love, someone they need Something they thought was meant to be Still I just keep on trying to Get through a day without crying

Night without asking why I can't stop thinking about you
Get through a song without thinking
I'm drowning, I'm sinking, wondering how I'm ever
gonna get through
But my feet just keep moving and I know the truth is Nobody gets through life without losing, losing, losing, losing

Losing, losing
