I was about to give up and that's no lie
Cardinal landed outside my window, threw his head back
Sang a song so beautiful, it made me cry Took me back to a childhood tree, full of birds and dreams

From this one place I can't see very far
In this one moment I'm square in the dark
These are the things I will trust in my heart
You can see something else, something else

I don't know what's making me so afraid Tiny cloud over my head, heavy and gray with a hint of dread
And I don't like to feel this way Take me back to a window seat with clouds beneath my feet

From this one place I can't see very far
In this one moment I'm square in the dark
These are the things I will trust in my heart
You can see something else, something else

From this one place I can't see very far
In this one moment I'm square in the dark
These are the things I will trust in my heart
You can see something else

You can see, you can see Something else, something else
You can see, you can see something else
You can see something else

He just threw back his head
(Take me back, take me back, take me back)
And sang a song, it was beautiful
(Take me back, take me back, take me back)
