Fallen like a soldier, tragically you are at war
You think you're not caught within a fragment of yourself
Do you think you're something you are not

You look like a lover
You feel like a nervous wreck
It cuts in the night
It hurts like an oversight

You long to feel the most amazing things
But you've come undone 'cause you have held it in Your eyes have seen the most amazing things

Falling like a rock into an ocean
There is something you forgot
Only you decided that you had to go and fight until you lost

You look like a fighter
You couldn't recognise yourself
Now you're cursing the night
You're watching the seconds die

You long to feel the most amazing things
But you've come undone 'cause you have held it in
And your eyes have seen the most amazing things
And this love you fear is such a precious thing
