He talked to me so slowly couldn't change my mind
All these phrases are circling and raging like a storm Throwing me into the ocean of secrets and mystery
I thought that I have reached the top But again I'm pushed back to the start I thought I would be someone else Someone bigger than myself
But still I am this child of God with a name
The time is rising slowly hot like the sunlight While the world is turning covered in blindness
On the stairs to nowhere without a shepered
I thought that you have reached the top
But again you're pushed back to the start
I thought you would be someone else Someone bigger than yourself
But still you are this child of God still you are this child of God
With a name Still you are still I am
