a rifle sits behind her sleeping ear an echo on the cold wall closest neighbor couldn't hear we dug a hole in the fall so now its a frozen burial and she's gone just before the new year well i'm gonna build a cross for the spot between the trees and stick it in firm so it won't sway in their breeze well you and i have trouble making up our half-assed minds but she'd seen 16 years of our kind and what's it like when your memories start to freeze oh and i wonder what it is about dogs and thunder what they hear coming over the fields backhouse shelter warm nights in the summer shaking the ground that you lie under well i know you're not here but at least you don't feel it anymore

and i came to see you on the day that it happened you said hey sorry sar but i gotta go and i was trying to read some sorta reaction it's something you just can't show so i guess it's time i go across the snowy barnyard just past the driving shed a shadow of me in the moon well i was in a movie in my head this pile of dirt on the ground will sink when nobody is around and winter covers everything but everything's not dead

anymore
