When you find yourself a new enemy can you take me down off the hook that you've been hanging me he said with almost all the love gone

And will the time soon come when you see fit the light will change will you just look at it and stare and wonder as the traffic moves why your still sitting there

All eyes are waiting for it(all eyes are waiting)
the moon is at your back and in the glow without even having (without even having) to know what you know
We're waving our white flags
we're hanging our heads out the high windows
(All eyes are waiting) Just to see you make your way
To the starting gate, And go.

Or maybe you could find away to be nice see me coming up in a line and let a smile seep out he swears that would be, all it would be about

He said just a peace to settle over us
No more words, no more making it up
No victory
No up and leave

All eyes are waiting for it(all eyes are waiting)
the moon is at your back and in the glow
without even having (without even having) to know what
you know
We're waving our white flags
we're hanging our heads out the high windows
(All eyes are waiting) Just to see you make your way
To the starting gate, And go.

Your seven numbers away From never having to say, anything more

Cause when you find yourself a new enemy
Can you take me down off the hook

that you've been hanging me on
He said with almost all the love gone.
