A new wind will blow
through everything
through everything I know

I was looking into every car hoping that someone might see and look back
I knew I let it out too far I watched it go I couldn't get it all back

CHORUS

Slowed it down below a waltz where there was hardly any sway or grace left It was so slow you could see all my faults every solitary step and mis-step Down like a leaf in the long grass I lay for I was the thief made of but not with everything there was a glow still under the ashes the past was getting ready to let go
If a new wind would blow

Walking into every room in the aftermath the place felt haunted By all the things we didn't do when the memory of what we wanted

CHORUS:

any swing or grace left It was so slow you could see all my faults and every solitary step and mis-step Down like a leaf in the long grass I lay for I was the thief
getting ready to let go

A new wind
A new wind will blow
through everything

through everything
