You say next time, it means next year
But it's right now, and I'm right here
We're surrounded by such good things

Let's not swallow all our feelings
In the old days, I was a bit...
Now I'm just a dusty vampire
Come and join me in this dark spot
Cause I want some, of what you got

I should hope you'd like to have a meal together
We could make each other laugh and drink some wine
And if we refuse to let this crummy weather
Bring us down, we could take our time

I spent hours getting ready
But too much time can be deadly
With our daily affirmations
So I broke our reservations
When I told you you should come by Unlock the door, turn off the light
Now I'm frozen to the love scene
All alone and getting hungry

When the wills come off, they never cease their ruling
And I'm always searching for the perfect run
It's my birthday what say you and I go bowling
All night long, we could take our time

But the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
No the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
Oh the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
Oh the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins

We're surrounded by such good things
Let's not swallow all our feelings

I was stuck on to my first drink
Had a second, found an instinct
Number three made me insWired
So I called you, you sound tired

I was weighing all my choices
Trying to block out all the voices
Far to many, here to mention
That distract from your attention

I should hope you'd like to have a meal together
We could make each other laugh and drink some wine
And if we refuse to let this crummy weather
Bring us down, we could take our time

But the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
No the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
Oh the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
Oh the conversation never ends,
When it never ever begins
