Well once again...

We set sail toward the sky (The Sky with wings of lead)

From frozen cliffs with wings of lead (We Find Ourselves)

And we find ourselves once more (back where we began)

The cornerstone of misery...

I am ready to breathe again

If I had a million last words to tell you

These words are the end of the solitude

Which held fast for so long inside this cold shell of a human being

They could never be adequate

They could never hold true

So I'm left dreaming of angels

Weaving a symphony (In blue skies)

I Dream of angels (these are the dreams you inspire)

Weaving a symphony in blue skies

Well once again

Well once again

We set sail toward the sky (The Sky with wings of lead)

From frozen cliffs with wings of lead (We Find Ourselves)

And we find ourselves once more (back where we began)

The cornerstone of misery...

Those torn wings which grounded me for so long

Have been given new life

So now I can fly with you as we cry for joy while staring at the sun

Nothing can be as bright as this today

No star can shine so beautifully tonight

We Find Ourselves...

Back where we began...

We Find Ourselves...

Back where we began...

We Find Ourselves...

Well once again...

We set sail toward the sky (The Sky with wings of lead)

From frozen cliffs with wings of lead (We Find Ourselves)

And we find ourselves once more (back where we began)

The cornerstone of misery...

The Sky with wings of lead

We Find Ourselves
