Every once and a while, I'll let loose,
Do something I'd never do,
While under the watchful eyes of others...

And how I feel so sad for you,
Always do what you're told to do,
Never let it go, well you'll never know, You'll never know...

You'll never know what it feels like,
To have lived life,
To do something wrong and have it turn out right..
You'll never know what it feels like,
To cross the line,
Not to do what you're told and feel fine...
I'm sorry, I'm sorry that you never came alive, But
there's still time...

Every once in a while I don't think,
I just do anything I want to,
Whatever gives me a thrill like I've never had before...

And how I feel so sad for you,
Always need to think things through,
Never let it go, well you'll never know, You'll never know...

You'll never know what it feels like,
To have lived life,
To do something wrong and have it turn out right..
You'll never know what it feels like,
To cross the line,
Not to do what you're told and feel fine...
I'm sorry, I'm sorry that you never came alive, But
there's still time...

There's still time....

You'll never know what it feels like,
To have lived life,
To do something wrong and have it turn out right..
You'll never know what it feels like,

To cross the line,
Not to do what you're told and feel fine...

You'll never know what it feels like,
To cross the line,
Not to do what you're told and feel fine...
I'm sorry, I'm sorry that you never came alive, I'm sorry, I'm sorry... sorry....
But there's still time...
