

Belinda Eriksson

"Footprints In The Sand"

Visit "Footprints In The Sand" on MotoLyrics.com

I made a bet with God; your strenght was to be weak, as you turned your back to leave and it was all a waste of time

Its hard to even count the things you've fucked up when you've been daydreaming of the life you never got

You left your footprints in the sand
ran after the waves
to catch the sun
You left your lips on my skin
Drank up the love
and then you spit us out

I heard you've found new ways to stay alive as you inhale the power of all you know is wrong

You left your footprints in the sand
ran after the waves
to catch the sun
You left your lips on my skin
Drank up the love
and then you spit us out

You used to say,
'the world is black and white, who ever comes back leaves something behind and I was neever in the mood to do it right'

You left your footprints in the sand
ran after the waves
to catch the sun
You left your lips on my skin
Drank up the love
and then you spit us out

Visit Belinda Eriksson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
