who gave you the right to break it
when i was on the edge of falling?
who said it was allright to tear down the walls?

who gave you the strenght to face it?
who ever said it'd make a change?
i was allready dying but you had the nervs to kill what was left

you killed my mornings and you killed my nights picked up the last flowers and made them died you stole the glitter and you stole the life
from my green eyes
my green eyes

who gave you the right to humiliate me when i was begging on my knees?
who said it'd be allright to take what was left?

who gave you the power to weak me?
who ever said it'd make a change?
i was allready bleeding when you cut me with a knife

picked up the last flowers and made them died
you stole the glitter and you stole the life
from my green eyes

picked up the last flowers and made them died
you stole the glitter and you stole the life
from my green eyes
my green eyes

when i was on the edge of falling?
who said it'd be okay

if you leave me?
