oh my god, one more mistake i hit the wall and it's too late visions of how sweet life could be it's a bittersweet symphony i'm strong when i face it but i'm weak when i get out something changes everytime and i loose my peace of mind i carry my pack of pain alone on this naked shoulders that you lean on you never say you love me, you never say you care

i fight this battle on my own count the cracks on my wall just try to catch me as i fall take away these shadows over me

it's a bittersweet symphony someone said life's 'bout holding on the one who's weak is actually strong so i am weak and i am strong but in the end i'm always wrong

you never say you care

you never say you care
