"Just Another Word"

When will you realize you can't change anything
With just an "X" on your hand
When will you realize that unity is just another word
If you don't follow through
These walls you build between us are the ones
You claim to be breaking down
I don't buy your superior attitude
When will you realize?
You cast me off because I'm not like you
You think you're cool with your ways
You self righteous child
This dilemma we face, we could face together
If you would really open your minds
When will you realize?
