The well-to-do family, the rich
In a life they talk about themselves
All the time but if they do
It's because they can afford to
Nobody could care less about your private life

But the cure's nice and care too (?)
Sentimental they'll always be Looking inside themselves and if they don't It's because they can't afford to
Nobody could care less about your private life

The well-to-do don't believe
In thinking anymore
But the workers must always use their heads
They've had it if they don't
And nobody could care less about your private life
