You're the reason I woke up this morning
You're the reason I sit on the floor
You're the reason I sleep on my side of the bed

You're the reason I'm everyone's friend
You're the reason I'm stuck in the middle with nothing to say, and a hole in you

So I wait
For any kind of faith
But what can you do
For me to see it through
Stuck out on my own again
Wait until I'd been around
For your whole, damn life to fall

I'm the reason you got up this morning
I'm the reason you get up at all
I'm the reason you sleep with the radio on

I'm the reason you quoting me back
I'm the reason you call to say nothing all
Space on the line, like no other one

So you wait
For any kind of faith
But what can you do
For me to see it through
Stuck out on my own again
Wait until I'd been around
For your whole, damn life to fall
