"Malice And Spite"

You like to unnecessarily polarize issues into an all or nothing dichotomy that gives you a place to exercise your deep seated lust for power over and hatred for people you don't know, people you don't understand

This lingering resentment has killed all compassion
something has gone awry!

Malice and spite
poisons your life

In oh so many ways this misanthropy trend has become not only a way to dodge the real tenets of an issue but to enact horrendous acts of hate hatred for people you don't know, people you don't understand

something has gone awry!

Malice and spite
poisons your life
and everything you touch dies... like the dreams that faded in time like the memories you left behind like the love that you had that can't be traced 'cause by now it has all been replaced by...

Hatred for people you don't know, people you don't understand

something has gone awry!
